

Congratulations to Emory Psychology's graduating students (2021) and recent PhD graduates (2020) on their postdoctoral fellowships & medical school placements

Graduating 2021

 Amanda Arulpragasam has accepted a postdoctoral fellowship in neuroimaging and neuromodulation within the Department of Psychiatry and Human Behavior in the Warren Alpert Medical School of Brown University

 Devika Basu has accepted a postdoctoral fellowship at the Anxiety Specialists of Atlanta working with Dr. Josh Spitalnick. The practice is a dedicated anxiety and OCD specialty outpatient clinic. Devika's training will involve providing evidence based interventions (CBT, ERP, ACT) for children and adolescents and assisting with program development to provide more services for the Atlanta community

 Elise Ozbardakci has accepted a 2-year postdoctoral fellowship at the Yale School of Medicine's Department of Psychiatry Obesity Center, working with Dr. Grilo and Dr. Lydecker on binge eating and obesity. The training will focus on program and intervention development for youth and families using targeted Cognitive Behavioral Therapy (CBT) and Trauma-focused CBT interventions. They also focus on self-help and internet delivery systems.

 Holly Poore has accepted a postdoctoral fellowship to work in Dr. Danielle Dick's lab at Virginia Commonwealth University where she will study the genetic and environmental influences on the development of substance use and related behavioral outcomes. This will include working on gene identification studies, longitudinal, community-based samples with genotypic data, and twin studies.
